DES MOINES' FIRST DEFEAT.

Omaba Bunches Her Hits and Comes Off Victorious in the Most Exciting Game of the Season So Far. Western Association Standing.

The close of the second week's playing o the Western association places Omaha at the head of the list. The difference between the home team and Des Moines is very small, the brilliantly won game of yesterday reducmg the Prohibitionists average from 1,000 to .857, and increasing the home team's figures from .857 to .877. Much depends on the result of the games to-day and Tuesday. Should Omaha win the series Des Momes will have to play ball right along to get at the top again. Giving Omaha one of the two games to be played, she will still hold the lead. But the two teams are so evenly matched that it is hard to tell which will hold the edge at the end of the first month's play. Kansas City ranks third with the others in the order as

Omaha 4, Des Moines 2. "All you that have tears, prepare to shed them now"-for Des Moines. What a lovely lambasting Omaha gave the great Prohibitionists on the local ground yesterday afternoon.

And in the presence of four thousand peo ple, too. Every seat on the bleaching boards, both the north and west wings, in the grand stand and the lady's annex, was occupied, while the extreme fields were a sea of buggies and carriages. It was a grand sight, a grand crowd, and oh, my, what enthusiasm! You coulan't hear yourself think, and when, after a long, hard, uphill struggle, Omaha overtook and tied the lambs from Iowa, the uproar was deafening, and when they passed them on Annis' masterly smash for two bags, it was pandemonium indeed. Captain Quinn had all of Des Moines strength out, with Smith in the box and Traffley behind the bat.

During the preliminary practice they pranced and cavorted and gamboled about like real giddy things. Monkey Holliday and Stummy Smith were especially hilarious.
They thought they had a snap, but, oh, my countrymen, what a fall! They came down with a thud with a thud.

Will it drive them to drink? It is to be hoped not.
Even the first inning was unusually interesting, a sort of avant courier of the great excitement that was to follow. Burns hit a swift one to Alvord, and was thrown out at first. Flynn retired on a long high fly to Van Dyke. Then Annis duplicated the Burns hit, but the big third baseman juggled the ball, and Annis was safe. He died, however, attempting to steal second. The vast crowd remained as quiet as a mouse.

For the prohibitionists Stearas went out from Doran to O'Connell. Then there was a cheer, but this turned to groan when Quinn hit a safe one to right, stole second by a hair and ran down to third one a passe bell of the conner was bell or the conner of the connection of t Moines delegation in the grand stand. But they quickly subsided, for the oldest man in the world, Orator Shafer, hit a long fly to the nimble Annis, and the puffed up Holliday anned out like an amateur.

It was Omaha's turn to howl. She did it. The home team didn't get a ball outside the diamond in the second, O'Connell, Miller and Shannon retiring in quick succession.

The absteminous contingent from across the river couldn't do any better. Macullar flew out to Burns, Alvord struck out and Van Dyke turned up his toes from Lovett to O'Connell.

O'Connell.

Again in the third it was one, two, three for the Omahas; Doran going out from Macullar to Stearns, and Lovett and Wilson wildly slashing away at the atmosphere three times each three times each. Then Traffley, once a member of the famed

U. P.'s, also agitated the air once, twice thrice, and sat down; Smith was out on Do ran's throw to first, but Stearns, what did he

Why, he walked right up the plate, swung his bat once or twice, then smashed one of Mr. Lovett's cannon-shot balls for a clean home run-clean because the sphere tumbled among the carriages crowded to gether in the extreme corner of the grounds. Had the field been clear, it would have been three-sacker only.

How the Des Moines brigade did make the welkin ring! It was positively disgusting to make such a fuss over such a little thing as The side went out with Windy Irwin's puny drive to Shannon. In the fourth Burns hit a long fly to Shafer, and Flynn hit one to Van Dyke, but Shafer, and Flynn hit one to Van Dyke, but a second time was Annis given a life by a fumble of Atwood's. But it was no use. O'Connell immediately went out at first.

In her half Des Moines lengthened her lead by another run. Shafer hit for two bags, the Cyclopean Holliday struck out for the second time, but Maculiar's drive to Doran was muffed, and Shafer came clear in on Doran's throw to catch Maculiar at second. Alvord and Van Dyke's outs retired the side Alvord and Van Dyke's outs retired the side. Again in the fifth was it one, two, three for Omaha, and their prospects were growing nore discouraging every moment. In their half Traffley died from pitcher to first, and Smith from third to first, first, and Smith from third to first. Then O'Connell very condescendingly muffed Do-rans throw of Stearn's hit, and the latter individual reached the base in safety. He stole second, but Quinn struck out and the agony was over. In the succeeded inning there was much enthusiasm, but more disappointment. Lovett ought to have scored but didn't. He led off with a beautiful two barger. Wilson drove a long fly to Holliday and of course re-tired. Then Burns hit to third, who threw wild to Stearns. Burns tried to make second on the error, but was caught, and a moment later Lovett was caught at the plate. For the prohibitionists Shafer flew out to Miller, a fine catch, but Holliday was given a lift by Flynn's muft of his high fly. However, there was no harm done, for Macullar flew out to Annis and Alvord to Burns.

But at last the lucky seventh was reached, and everybody braced themselves for developments.

Sure enough they were forthcoming. Here's where you yell.
Flyan popped up a high one to big Alvord, and with a disgusted look went and sat down. Annis then lined out a two bagger, and

O'Connell made the four thousand spectators jump for joy as he banged the ball to far center for a couple of bags himself, while Annis, amid a whirlwind of applause, dashed But when Miller followed with the third two bagger in succession, the crowd fairly went mad, for O'Connell went home and the score was tied. This was plenty for one inning and Shannon and Doran obligingly went out. This knocked all the skittishness out of the prohibitions. Quinn closed up like a clam, while a gob of gloom hung around Holliday's mug so thick that he couldn't smile. They never whimpered again throughout the struggle, but acted just like a lot of oid puraped out race horses. They were extinguished as fast as they came to the bat, Van Dyke, Traffley and Smith.

The Omahas were now feeling pretty good and to levely up the imblance in the grand and to level up the imblance in the grand.

and to keep up the jubilance in the grand stand. Lovett tapted out a two bagter. Then Wilson hit to Macullar, who caught Lovett trying to make third, Wilson, however, being safe. Burns then struck out, and on Fights safe hit Wilson, Then there was a racket from the Des forward and to the frantic delight of every-without further exploit.

In the ninth short work was made of Omaha, but Macullar, the first man at the bat for Des Moines, made a two bagger. IT'S ENGLISH YOU KNOW. The Omaha Cricket Club Organized for the Summer's Games. The game of cricket is bound to become a popular one in this city this year. The Omaha Cricket club was first organized in the spring of 1886, and the ensuing summer witnessed several decisive victories over both local and other teams, notably those of Lincoln and Hastings. Last year the club was compelled to be rather inactive, owing to the loss of a number of prominent members through change of residence, etc., so that beyond the almost weekly contests, recorded in the daily papers at the time, between the "Randellites" and "Quidnuncs" or "Nondescripts," both of which teams be longed to the Omaha Cricket club, and an oc casional victory over the "St. George's," no matches of any importance were played. This season however, promises to be un paralleled in the annals of cricket west of Chicago, at least, if any one may judge by the enthusiasm expressed at the annual and subsequent meetings of this banner club of the west. The management has been en-tirely changed and with the exception of the presidency, which is still an open question, the offices have been all filled with men who possess an intricate knowledge of the duties devolving upon their several departments. The newly elected officers of the club are men who are old at the game and will make this season's team the best that has ever been in the city.

The management of the club has been The management of the club has been placed in the hands of an executive committee composed of the officers and eight practical members, viz, Messrs. George H. Vaughan, W. R. Vaughan, R. W. Taylor, J. Cruickshank, J. A. Jopp, F. E. Smith, R. Nunn and Mr. Green, and the manner in which arrangements for the ensuing season have been perfected reflects great credit upon their judgment and discernment. That problem so difficult to solve in this city, the lease of a tract of ground requiring a nicer turf than lawn tennis, has been brought to a turf than lawn tennis, has been brought to a successful issue and the Omaha Driving park is the location chosen. By taking the street ear company's blue line this ground is easy of access as the base ball park pavillion, with the difference of a few minutes longer with the difference of a few minutes longer travel, and the agreement grants the club the use of water and roller, advantages which every cricketer will at once recognize. The first practice match of the season came off yesterday afternoon, and the large and enthusiastic gathering speaks well for the interest taken in the game by outsiders as well as memoers. The colors of the club are dark blue and white. colors of the club are dark blue and white, and it is fondly hoped by the boys that the fair ladies of our city will favor those colors in the expected match with the champions of Chicago on the Fourth of July. A list of the present active members is given below: Edward Stringer, vice president; George H. Vaughan, captain; C. W. Anderson, secretary; George Barker, treasurer; George Roberts, John Francis, R. A Question Answered. The snake editor of THE BEE this morning received the following communication: NEBRASKA CITY, May 10 .- Mr. Snake Editor-Dear Sir: To decide a dispute please inform a pair of readers of THE BEE where the boa-constrictor snake is found and whether any of them are natives of this country, and if so what state. Please give length and width of the largest and oblige,

R. & D. The boaconstrictor is found in Africa and Asia, with a member of the same family in South America although the latter can hardly be classed as a boa proper. The serpent is a venomicss reptile and flourishes in the jungles of India and forests of Africa best. In the latter country he attains his greatest growth and specimens of what is known as the emperor boa have been killed, which measured twenty-six feet in length. The body is about the thickness of the average man's wrist in the largest speci-mens, but the snake is so constructed that it mens, but the snake is so constructed that it can swallow even a yearling steer, although the task requires nearly three days to complete. Incidentally, and for the information of others, it may be stated that there are no boaconstrictors in the United States, except in Kansas, Iowa and Maine and a few counties and towns where local option prevails. In such places they are very plentiful at times, and one man has been found who at times, and one man has been found who avers that he saw one nearly a mile long, but it is thought he was about 160 rods from the truth. The boa constrictor found in the localities mentioned are usually accompanied by a delegation of little snakes who climb up one's rantaloons and sneak into his boots and are very troublesome.

While Mrs. Mollie Green's pupils in a Perry county, Tennessee, log school-house were busy with their lessons a mad dog rushed into the room. The teacher brought the dog to bay, and, protected by her skirts, kept it off with a ruler until the children escaped. The dog repeatedly leaped at the young woman's throat, out she fought it off until neighbors arrived and killed it. Mrs. Green's clothes were torn to ribbons. The parents of the little ones gave her a saddle-Green's clothes were torn to ribbons. The parents of the little ones gave her a saddle-horse in acknowledgment of her heroism. Captain Jack Crawford, the poet scout, writes The Bee that his name has wrongfully been connected with "a trasky blood and thunder outfit known as the Daniel Boone show," which is using his name and lithographs, "thereby deceiving the public." He says the "outfit will shortly appear in Omaha," and asks The Bee to protect his
